This era of decorating engine markings and text, were produced by skilled sign writers whose dafting technics are beyond belief. If you ever get a chnce to see a signwriter at work, then I strongly recomend you do so, although I fear there are not many left. Albiet the ability is amazing there was always a little licence in repetability, plus each had their own style and technique, conesqently all vary, minimally.

Nearest modern tpestyle font I have identified with this hand drafted and painted style is 'interstate bold'
